HISTORY OF UTAH PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

The Public Utilities Commission of Utah was authorized by the Public Utilities Act which was signed by Governor Simon Bamberger on March 8, 1917. The Commission was organized on April 3, 1917, and consisted of three Commissioners, a stenographer, a reporter and a special investigator.

Legislation enacted by the 1935 Legislature changed the name of the Public Utilities Commission to the Public Service Commission, by which it is known today. In a major reorganization of Utah State Government, the first session of the 1941 Legislature created the Department of Business Regulation of Utah with a three-member Commission known as the Commission of Business Regulation. The Commission of Business Regulation also constituted the Public Service Commission.

The Utah Legislature at its regular 1969 session enacted legislation reorganizing the administrative powers in the Department of Business Regulation. The Commission of Business Regulation was replaced with an executive director of the Department of Business Regulation and the Public Service Commission was made an independent part of the Department. The Public Service Commission was prohibited from exercising any administrative authority over the Division of Public Utilities (Division), which was created to execute the rules, regulations, and orders of the Commission under the direction of the executive director of the Department. At that time, the Division audited utilities' books and records, assisted in review of legal matters, submitted recommendations to the Commission, and presented testimony and exhibits in formal cases before the Commission.

Despite the 1969 reorganization, the Division continued to function essentially as the staff of the Commission, and participated in hearings, not as an adversary party, but as a disinterested, fact-finding entity whose major role was to see that the record in the proceedings was fully developed. The Division was not precluded from making a recommendation, but its posture was perceived as sufficiently neutral that no party felt prejudiced by the Commission's full and free access to the thinking and expertise of the Division.

Since 1977, when the Division of Public Utilities first appealed a Commission decision to the Supreme Court, the Division has considered itself independent of the Commission. With legal assistance from the Attorney General's office, the Division began to participate in hearings as an adversary party, able to appeal Commission orders.

In 1977, the Legislature established the Committee of Consumer Services (Committee). The Committee is composed of five citizen members appointed by the Governor. The Committee represents the interests of residential and small commercial consumers of telephone, natural gas and electrical services. The Committee receives legal assistance from the attorney general's office and can appeal Commission decisions. It has a small staff and resides administratively within the Department of Business Regulation.

HISTORY OF UTAH PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION (CONT'D.)

In 1983, the Legislature reorganized utility regulation. The Public Service Commission was established as an organization independent from all other state agencies. Provision was made for a Commission technical staff, solely responsible to the Commission, and having no right of appeal. The Division of Public Utilities was statutorily established to perform the functions relative to the regulatory and adjudicative jurisdiction of the Commission that it had been doing, including appearing before the Commission as a party and appealing Commission decisions. The Division remained part of the Department. The Committee continued to function according to statute and to be part of the Department.

Currently, the Utah Public Service Commission is an independent agency having statutory duties and legislative, adjudicative, and rulemaking powers. It regulates electrical, natural gas, telephone and water utilities, and motor carrier companies.

The Commission is headed by three full-time Commissioners appointed to six-year staggered terms by the Governor, with the consent of the senate. One member is designated by the Governor as Chairman. The Commissioners preside as a body in formal hearings concerning utility regulation matters such as applications for rate and service changes. Every public utility is subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. A support staff of technical, legal, and clerical persons assists the Commissioners in analyzing the record in every case that comes before it, making recommendations for Commission decisions, preparing formal documents such as Commission orders, and managing the daily operation of the Commission's office.

The primary responsibility of the Commission is to ensure safe, reliable and adequate utility service. It conducts hearings and investigations of utility company operations in order to determine just and reasonable rates for service. The Commission's goal for regulation is efficient, reliable, reasonably priced utility service, which, over the long run, meets consumer demand for types and qualities of service and maintains financially healthy utility companies. This goal must, in general, be attained through the regulatory decisions the Commission makes in each formal case (docket) coming before it.

The following briefly presents, by utility type, the dockets considered by the Commission, and its formal orders issued thereon, during the period July 1989 - June 1990. No effort is made to describe the dockets or the Commission proceedings. Suffice it to say, each proceeding involves the participation of a utility and a number of other parties, including the Division and the Committee. Formal testimony of expert witnesses is taken, cross examination by each party's attorney is conducted, a transcribed record is produced, and at hearing's end, the record is closed. Thereafter, the Commission, with the assistance of its technical and legal staff, analyzes the case record, and, following deliberations, renders its decisions. This is, as a rule, a time consuming, involved, quasi-judicial process, dominated by concerns for the due process rights of parties, and by the need for a full and complete record upon which the Commission can reach decisions that, within the meaning established by law, are just and reasonable.

90-049-06

By order of May 10, 1990, the Commission consolidated Dockets 90-049-03, U S West Communications (USWC) application seeking approval of an incentive regulation plan, and 90-049-06, Division of Public Utilities (DPU) petition requesting the Commission to institute an investigation into the reasonableness of the rates and charges of USWC. These cases were scheduled for hearings in December, 1990.

Docket No.
90-049-06

In an order issued June 22, 1990, the Commission determined that the standards for consideration of interim rate increases and decreases need not be the same. On the basis of a prima facie showing, the Commission ordered an interim rate reduction of $10,655,000. A 1989 test year, adjusted to be consistent with decisions made in Docket No. 88-049-07, and an 11.8 percent rate of return on equity, were used.

UTAH SPEECH AND HEARING IMPAIRED TELECOMMUNICATION PROGRAM

In 1987, the Utah Legislature enacted Senate Bill 101, the Speech/Hearing Impaired Act. Pursuant to this act, and in accordance with objectives embraced by Utah's deaf and speech-impaired community, a program has been established which creates a dual party relay system and a system to distribute special telephone devices ("TDDs") to low income individuals who are deaf or speech-impaired. The Dual Party Relay involves the intervention of an operator to relay a typed message from a deaf or speech-impaired individual to a hearing individual, or the reverse.

The Commission has adopted rules governing the operation of the program. An advisory board, consisting of representatives of the deaf, the speech impaired, government and the telephone industry, has been appointed. The board recommended criteria for selection of an operator to provide service and all parties expressing an interest in providing operators for the relay system were asked to submit proposals. On this basis, the Utah Association for the Deaf was selected to be the operator-provider, under contract.

Commission staff worked with the divisions of State Telecommunication and Purchasing to acquire, install, and test the required equipment. On January 11, 1988, the relay began to provide service 24 hours per day, seven days per week. Because program funds were limited, distribution of telephone devices for the deaf did not begin until the statute was altered to allow an increase in the surcharge levied on regular telephone subscribers' monthly bills. Since June 22, 1989, this surcharge has been seven cents. With funding secure, the board recommended a firm to provide special telephone devices. Upon Commission approval, a contract was awarded to Ultra-Tec for this purpose. The Commission then entered into a contract with the Division of Services for the Deaf and Hard-of-Hearing to distribute the telephone devices to deaf and speech-impaired persons, and to train them to use the equipment.

The surcharge on telephone subscriber access lines is the only source of revenue to cover the cost of providing service. There are no additional charges for using the relay for calls placed and completed within the state. Interstate calls are allowed over the relay only if a calling card is used. This system eliminates problems of billing for interstate calls and gives the calling party the choice of a long distance carrier.

If the Utah relay meets Federal Communication Commission requirements, the state will be exempt from a mandated federal relay system. This is likely because the Utah program is successful. In fact, Utah has received requests from other states for assistance in setting up a similar program or asking for permission to use the Utah relay.

TRANSPORTATION

The Commission regulates motor carriers engaged in the transportation of passengers or property for hire in Utah. The regulated carrier section of the Division assists the Commission by issuing interstate carrier licenses and intrastate exempt licenses, maintaining insurance filing records, issuing cab card identification stamps, maintaining tariff filings, investigating motor carrier complaints, offering testimony at motor carrier hearings, and performing audits of regulated carriers.

The issuance or cancellation of certificates of convenience and necessity issued to common carriers, and permits issued to contract carriers, require an order of the Commission. Interstate carrier licenses require only that the carrier provide evidence of Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) authority, evidence of insurance, and designation of process agent.

KEY MOTOR CARRIER ORDERS JULY 1989 - JUNE 1990

Docket No.
88-999-09

In an order issued May 23, 1990, the Commission initiated a rulemaking to institute the use of the Division of Public Utilities' computerized analysis method for evaluating common carrier rate filings.
