Power went out only for a few hours because his power lines are underground.

He thinks that Public Service Commission should fine the Power company everyday for trees that are not trimmed, like they do in Oregon. This way it will give people jobs, it will be safer for public and when we have storms there will be less people without power. He bets it will cut the power outages in half. He is a contractor for PacifiCorp. PacifiCorp is always laying people off and if they just kept the people they had, they could get the trees trimmed properly and give more people jobs.
