ENCOURAGE, DON'T PENALIZE.

For >20 years I did my share educating manufacturing businesses in cleaning their processes, saving them money at the same time with fewer sick leaves.

* In trying to invest in renewable energy I pay Rocky Mountain Power an allotment towards wind energy, only to be told this is to assist California, instead of Utah!

* My neighbor disconnected his solar panels because he could not afford to keep them running. It is high time that Utah takes charge against fossil fuel polluters and specifically RMP's ridiculous idea to charge people who did the right thing in using alternative energy.

Last year I lost my best friend of 27 years to Salt Lake City's inversion, he was 82 and strong as an ox, who loved being a crossing guard and walking our little dog, but his lungs were no match to the ever increasing contamination he had to breathe.

I beg of you: Do not let more people die from the air we breathe by allowing companies to penalize instead of reward customers, who are more modern than their e-power suppliers. Do the hard thing: reward those using renewable energy and invest in a healthy future for Utah.
