Dear Public Service Commission,

As you consider the Integrated Resource Plan I ask you to please pressure Rocky Mountain Power to move away from coal fired power to renewable energy sources. There is so much respiratory illnesses in our state and you have the power to improve people's lives. I have seen the affects of coal on my family. My daughter attending college in Seattle and for the first time in her life she can breath. When she come home she notices all of her symptoms return. My husband has worked in London and New York City with little problem but our air quality has had him considering his health and where we should live. We love Utah and after 25 years we would hate to leave for health reasons. Your efforts to improve the quality of our air and our environment will have such lasting benefits to our State's economy and the health of many generations.

Be strong and brave and tell Rocky Mountain Power the time has come to stop hurting Utah.
