Dear Commissioner White,

I feel totally betrayed by RMP! I got solar 2 years ago and before that I contributed monthly to 'Blue Sky, for supposed energy saving research, but now that people are investing in solar, RMP does not pay them for the excess they produce, instead they take it away in March of every year, and for that privilege we are charged $9/month! If they even consider taking away the net meter for the rest of the year, we will have it confirmed that all they think of is their profit and that they have no regard or gratitude for what we produce at all. I wonder if we could form a municipality and then see what they would think if we all pulled our energy away from them? It could be an honest partnership, but it just isn't, unfortunately! The monthly charge is totally adequate for what they provide and maybe to much, and as far as I know no other unpredictable charges are necessary. My daughter lives in Bermuda Dunes, CA and they are a solar city and their customers all benefit from very low energy rates. They show what is possible when you work with an honest company, which we do not have!

Sincerely,

Janet Muhn

Dear PSC Staff,

I recently purchased Solar panels for my home. If net metering is eliminated I will have a $20,000 investment with no way to pay for it. I am a senior citizen with a limited fixed income. I would appreciate it if you would protect the interests of us who have invested in Solar Technology.

Sincerely,

Kay Pate

Dear Chairman LeVar,

Really? You are considering this? RMP is throwing a tantrum because they are not getting everyone's money and wants to charge fees, which are basically meant to hurt solar power users and drive them back into their wallets! Who gets the money? Is solar power a crime? If so, why? Sorry for my tone but I am tired of the whining of so many businesses who think no one else has the right to choose for themselves. It's a terrible idea and believe me, our country and state have made enough of those in recent years.

Sandra Barbieri
