Thanks for your reply to my email concerning the solar net metering program.

I do feel somewhat better that excess power is donated to the low income assistance program. That raises a question. I assume Rocky Mountain Power receives an tax deduction for a charitable donation. If that is correct, it seems ethical that that charitable donation would also be available to me, as I am the one who actually generated the power.

Also, would the legislature have to change or amend the Utah Codes? Or can the Public Service Commission do so?

Regards

Jerry Frandsen
