

PublicService Commission <psc@utah.gov>

---

17-035-61, public comment

1 message

---

Matthew Gosselin <mgosselin80@gmail.com>

Wed, Jun 2, 2021 at 4:30 PM

To: psc@utah.gov

Good afternoon,

I'm looking at getting solar on my home.

I have a serious issue with the electric company Rocky Mountain Power using my solar to sell and then zeroing out my credit built up every March.

I spoke with Rocky Mountain Power about how the credit works for solar. They informed me that they give me X amount of money per kilowatt sent to them, via my solar. I was informed that every March, my credit gets set back to zero.

If they are taking power from my system, the credit should never go away, or I should be able to sell power back to them, they should pay me.

This is not right. Why would I let them use my Solar panels to create power from them?

Thank you,

Matthew Gosselin
Layton, Utah