Dear Utah Public Service Commission,

I am writing to state that Rocky Mountain Power's 2025 Integrated Resource Plan (IRP) does not serve the best interests of Utahns. The Commission must protect the people of this state by properly balancing utility interests against those of ratepayers to ensure the provision of safe, reliable, and low-cost electricity

A 20-year plan that ignores the reality of the escalating costs of fossil fuel generation and dangerous of climate change isn't a plan at all. We are being asked to fund PacifiCorp's continued reliance on expensive, outdated energy sources that harm our communities. Rocky Mountain Power has not reasonably justified why they are lagging behind in the transition to renewable energy, which offers a safer, healthier, and more affordable path forward.

Please hold PacifiCorp accountable and reject this plan until the interests of Utah ratepayers are adequately balanced against those of out-of-state shareholders. We deserve an actual plan based in reality.

Sincerely,

Alex Jahp
