USE OF SUPPLIER-NON-GAS-SERVICES)

Questar Gas Company (Questar Gas or Company) respectfully submits this tariff change to comply with the Utah Public Service Commission (Commission) Order dated November 9, 2015 in Docket No. 14-057-31 (Order). In the Order, the Commission required Questar to “review Tariff Section 2.06 Gas Balancing Account Adjustment Provision and file necessary updates reflecting the decisions in this order by no later than one month prior to the filing of Questar’s next 191 account pass-through application.” Accordingly, the Company respectfully submits the attached proposed changes to the Company’s Utah Natural Gas Tariff No. 400 (Tariff).

Section 2.06 outlines the various revenues and expenses that are included in each pass-through application. Effective February 1, 2016, transportation customers will be charged a transportation imbalance charge for upstream balancing services that are used to manage their daily imbalances. This charge will be collected from transportation customers each month. In each pass-through, imbalance charges collected from the transportation customers for the prior twelve month period will be credited to the sales customers. The “Gas Revenues” subsection of Section 2.06 has been revised to reflect the treatment of the imbalance charges that are collected from transportation customers.

The Company requests that the Commission approve the proposed Tariff changes with an effective date of May 1, 2016.

DATED this 31st day of March, 2016.

Respectfully submitted,
