Dear Public Service Representative,

It has come to my attention at the Public Service Commission is considering changing its rules to make it more difficult for rate payers and others to make their voices heard by the committion. As an individual rate payer and citizen I strongly feel that this is precisely the wrong direction to take. I believe that individuals and groups should be encouraged to make their opinions known to the commission rather than discouraged.

Please consider my strongly held opinion when considering any changes in your rules and/or procedures.
